THE MANSE

Rev. Keith Blackwood

Mannofield Manse 21 Forest Avenue Aberdeen E-mail k5blackwood@btinternet.com

Dear Friends

I trust you have enjoyed a slower pace of life over the summer months. It is always nice to benefit from the change of routine, a holiday and the variety that these weeks of July and August afford.

As August comes to an end some might feel inclined to express the sentiment, 'All good things come to an end', but hopefully you might feel able to agree with me that in a sense it is quite nice to welcome the return of routine and responsibility that comes with our day to day life and the function of the Church.

Jesus himself knew the need for, and the benefit of, some break from routine and the daily grind of his ministry. The demands on him were great of course and the pressure high but the stories about his life make it clear that he took time to himself in order to cultivate his relationship with God. Today we call such time - 'Prayer and Devotion'. In Jesus' story we clearly see however that after Prayer he put his life, his energy and his time into the hands of God and poured himself into his specific responsibility of building God's Kingdom.

As our Church session takes shape over these coming weeks I look forward to the challenges of continuing to shape our congregation into a community where 'all are welcome' and all find an opportunity to cultivate an appropriate relationship with God. Such ambition cannot be achieved unless we all pray, worship and work together towards the same end.

I am sure God can count on all of us to be enthusiastic about the opportunities he provides, that allow each one of us to play our part in the building of our very own community of God here in Mannofield.

Best Wishes

Keith

High Flight Battle of Britain Day 15 September

Oh! I have slipped the surly bonds of Earth And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings; Sunward I've climbed, and joined the tumbling mirth Of sun-split clouds, - and done a hundred things You have not dreamed of - wheeled and soared and swung High in the sunlit silence. Hov'ring there, I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung My eager craft through footless halls of air Up, up the long, delirious burning blue I've topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace Where never lark, or ever eagle flew -And, while with silent, lifting mind I've trod The high untrespassed sanctity of space, Put out my hand, and touched the face of God.

John Gillespie Magee, Jr

I AM THANKFUL

For the wife Who says it's hot dogs tonight, Because she is home with me, And not out with someone else.

For the husband Who is on the sofa Being a couch potato, Because he is home with me And not out at the bars.

For the teenager Who is complaining about doing dishes Because it means she is at home, Not on the streets.

For the taxes I pay Because it means I am employed.

For the mess to clean after a party Because it means I have Been surrounded by friends.

For the clothes that fit a little too snug Because it means I have enough to eat. For my shadow that watches me work Because it means I am out in the sunshine

For a lawn that needs mowing, Windows that need cleaning, And gutters that need fixing Because it means I have a home.

For all the complaining I hear about the government Because it means We have freedom of speech.

For the parking spot I find at the far end of the parking lot Because it means I am capable of walking And I have been blessed with transportation.

For my huge heating bill Because it means I am warm.

For the lady behind me in church Who sings off key because it means I can hear.

Live well, laugh often, & love with all of your heart!

In Session.....with Scribe

The departure of Youth Worker Stiubhart MacChoille (reported in the June edition of "InSpire") led to discussion as to a possible successor at the June meeting of Kirk Session. Keith's recommendation that a part-time Youth Worker be sought, working 20 hours per week, was approved by Session.

It was hoped that advertising the post locally through Presbytery, University and other sources where it might attract interest would bring forward suitable candidates.

Session also gave Keith its full support in his seeking to obtain a chaplaincy with the Army Cadet Force, which would involve him for 20 days per annum. The ACF has no church connection other than through their chaplains, and Keith feels he has reached a stage in his ministry when he is sufficiently experienced to take on more responsibility in the wider Church and that work in this area would be worthwhile.

Among the various committee reports submitted, Session was advised that Dr. Ian Hunter was retiring as convener of the Worship & Devotion committee, with Alastair Chambers taking his place.

It was also reported that the first Alpha course, which was nearing its end, had produced wonderful fellowship. It is hoped that a second course will start in January and a volunteer to act as treasurer is being sought.

After more than 30 years service in the eldership, Michael Murray has asked to be moved to the retired elders' list.

The Session meeting on August 25 will be reported in the October issue of "InSpire".

Christ in Woolworth's

(a prayer from a former time)

I did not think to find you there – Crucifixes, large and small, Sixpence and threepence on a tray, Among the artificial pearls, Paste rings, tin watches, beads of glass.

It seemed so strange to find you there Fingered by people coarse and crass, Who had no reverence at all. Yet – what is it you would say? "For these I hang upon my cross, For these the agony and loss, Though heedlessly they pass me by."

Dear Lord forgive such fools as I Who thought it strange to find you there When you are with us everywhere.

Retiring Collections

It has always been important to us in Mannofield that over the years we have been able to offer, along with our prayers, practical financial help to fellow Christians and many other needy causes both overseas and more locally. To do this, we have made use both of our funds and special collections. The former method is no longer available to us under the rules of the Charities' Regulator and any financial help we give must result from a Special Collection.

Members of the Congregation will therefore appreciate how important are our retiring collections, especially at Communions. Recent responses have been more than a little disappointing and perhaps we can do much better.

At the October Communion we would like to help our friends Suresh and Roja Vemulapalli in their splendid work in the India Village Ministries.

A recent newsletter has told us about their Gospel meetings, outreach and the valuable work of their Children's Home for the needy. Any money we are able to collect goes to them direct and does not have to be channelled through any other agency.

STORY CROSSWORD

As you read this story of one of the Bible's most disliked characters, you will see that some words have been replaced by a reference in brackets. Try to find the missing words, then enter them in the grid. Then put the circled letters in their right order to give you the name of the character.

For 18 years he held the office of religious leader of the Jewish nation. But he was fearful of events which took place during the earthly life of Jesus. The miracles performed by the Lord disturbed him, as many people were (23D) to become followers of this new 'preacher' who claimed to be the Son of God.

In (29A) military occupation of Palestine the authorities were (12A) to stay on good terms with the Jews; and they found (3D) religious leader to be a zealous collaborator as was his father-in-law a (18D) leader. A (28A) at all times, he feared that if Jesus were (4A) to continue preaching, it may spell (10A) for the Jews who would (5D) their self-determination. He decided to take (4D).

A (27A) of the highest Jewish council in the city was called, at which he told them: '(11A) know nothing at all. You do not (17D) that it is better for you that one man die for the people than that the (6D) nation (15A).'

After he had convinced members of the council with his smooth talk he started a bitter campaign against Jesus. His high religious standing did not stop him doing his utmost to bring the Lord to trial. At (1A) he (1D) the problem of finding false evidence on which to (8A) Jesus. Finally, two false withesses, with lack of understanding, declared that they had heard Jesus threaten to destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days.

Such a statement only increased the (2D) within him, especially when Jesus remained silent after further questioning. Then these words burst (20D) from his lips:

'I (16A) you under oath by the living God. Tell us if you are the Christ, the (21A) of God.'

'Yes, it is as you say,' Jesus replied.

His accuser then (25D) his clothes and turned to (13D) the others: 'He has spoken blasphemy. What do you think?'

'He is worthy of death,' they answered; for hatred of the Lord was (19A) among them. There were those (14D) struck him with their fists and began to (9A). Only a few present failed to (26A).

As president of the court in which the trial took place his mind was (22A) up. Jesus must die. No (7D) witness was permitted. No friends of Jesus were present; only those like Peter who stood afar off. This corrupt leader knew now that his part in the so-called trial was at an end. It would (24D) that he, (15D) more than any other person, was responsible for the crucifixion of Jesus. In having Jesus put to death he killed the Messiah whose coming they had long awaited.

June's solution: The letters required were DOLPHIN.

BEING LED BY THE LECTIONARY

Lectionary History

From the earliest days of Christianity, some churches have followed a lectionary for their worship. The revision of the Roman lectionary during Vatican II inspired a renewed interest in lectionary usage by a variety of denominations. This eventually led to the Revised Common Lectionary (1993), which is used in worship books, hymnals, and church calendars throughout the English-speaking world. Using four scripture readings per week, this lectionary provides a structure for reading a large portion of the Bible over a three-year cycle.

Moving through the seasons...

The seasons of the church year, which guide the readings in the lectionary, engage spirituality in a number of different ways. Within the rhythms of the church year and the readings from the lectionary are ample opportunities for the Holy Spirit to lead in a new and holy dance. As an added advantage, the lectionary is both ecumenical and international, meaning that churches around the world explore the same scriptures each week.

Advent, Christmas and Epiphany

In Advent, the mood of anticipation and hope is enhanced by readings from the Hebrew prophets and gospel readings about God being born among us. Church activities focus on preparation for a new birthing of God within our lives, which is celebrated in the short Christmas season. The Season after the Epiphany celebrates the beginnings of Jesus' earthly ministry. It provides opportunities to explore calls to both individual and congregational ministry. It also invites congregations to examine how they might better invite and equip people to live out their ministries.

Lent and Easter

Lenten readings invite us to examine ourselves, looking within both individual and communal hearts to better understand what it means to be a follower of Jesus. Some churches concentrate on spiritual growth and development through additional worship and learning opportunities. Easter is a joyous celebration of fifty days – beginning with Easter Day and culminating with the festival of the Day of Pentecost. In this season, readings from the New Testament epistles examine the life of the early church, learning from their activities, mistakes, and adventures.

Pentecost 1 and 2

Following the festival of Pentecost we enter a long period of time which some churches call "Ordinary Time." Seasons of the Spirit divides this long season into two seasonal resources. Stories of Jesus' teaching and healing, set against sweeping sagas of Hebrew history and prophetic readings, remind us how God is with us in the everyday moments of our lives.
